About asking too many questions

Questions are good
If I don't know something it is good to ask someone if they know asking questions is a good way to learn

If I ask too many questions all in one go the person I am asking might be overwhelmed

People need time to think about answers and they might not want to answer lots of questions in one go

If I ask too many questions
all in one go the person I'm asking might feel annoyed

They might get cross or tell me to be quiet or go away

It is a good idea to ask people if they mind answering a question for me

If they say yes I should try and remember not to ask too many questions in one go

I can feel proud of myself if I can remember to

1) ask people if they mind answering a question

2) not ask too many questions at once

3) be polite when they give me an answer
